

TERMS OF PEACE NOT DISCUSSED AT FIRST CONFERENCE SESSION

Japanese and Russian Envoys Meet, Satisfy Each Other of Powers, Arrange for Future Meetings and Agree to Conduct Negotiations in English and French.

BARON KOMURA WAS WITHOUT CREDENTIALS

Understood Meeting Was to Be Informal and Left Papers at Hotel, but Witte Waives Sending for Them, Taking Jap's Word for Their Contents.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Aug. 9.—The peace conference between Japanese and Russian envoys for ending the far Eastern war is on. The first session began in the Naval Stores Building here this morning at 10:30 o'clock and lasted one hour.

Credentials were exchanged and a program for future meetings arranged. Terms of peace were not discussed. From the mass of speculative chatter concerning the outcome of the peace conference two kernels of facts were sifted. The first is that there will be peace if the Russians can bring it about on any sort of reasonable terms. The second is that the Japanese terms will not be as drastic as has been supposed. The Russians are seeking a way out. They do not intend to go back home without a treaty if they can help it. They can get no money to continue the war. They can get money to discharge the terms of peace.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Aug. 9.—The first session of the peace conference between the Russian and Japanese envoys has ended.

It lasted about an hour, during which time the credentials of M. Witte were examined. The credentials were found to be entirely satisfactory.

Baron Komura did not have his credentials with him, having left them at the hotel, thinking this would be only an informal meeting. M. Witte, learning this, waived presentation, taking Komura's word for the powers they conferred, and the conference proceeded.

The only other business transacted was an agreement on a program for future sessions. The next meeting will be held at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow.

After the session the envoys spent some time in their respective offices, leaving the general stores building shortly after noon. They returned to Newcastle by launch. Baron Komura and Minister Takahira were the first to leave the navy yard landing.

The Russians followed shortly afterward, the trip to the landing being made by the Russians and the Japanese in separate boats. The envoys have agreed that the English and French languages shall be used jointly and that the official minutes shall be kept in the French language.

A correspondent of the Associated Press was received by one of the plenipotentiaries within 10 minutes after the missions returned to Newcastle, and in reply to questions about the conference, he said:

"You can say that this morning's meeting was satisfactory so far as it went. Our next meeting will be held tomorrow morning. Provided all goes well we will get down to business then."

"Terms were not discussed at today's meeting."

While the plenipotentiaries did not get down to serious work, they felt well satisfied with what they accomplished today.

Extreme cordiality characterized the session. At this morning's meeting Baron Komura spoke Japanese, his secretary, M. Honda, translating it into French, while Mr. Witte spoke entirely in French.

M. Mahokoff was charged with the writing of the minutes or protocol. At tomorrow's meeting, besides Mr. Witte, Baron Komura and Mr. Mahokoff, there will also be present M. Korostovaz and Mr. George de Planzon. Three secretaries not yet chosen will assist Baron Komura.

When it became known about the hotel that the Russian credentials had been presented and examined and the Japanese had not been presented there was considerable uneasiness. In some quarters an attempt was made to make much of this incident as indicating that Japan had scored at the first meeting.

There is, however, official authority for the statement that Baron Komura was entirely sincere in his understanding that there were to be no formalities at this morning's session and hence did not think it necessary to bring his official letters.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Aug. 9.—Negotiations for ending the war between Russia and Japan are establishing permanent peace in the far East were begun in the Naval Stores Building in the navy yard here this morning at 10:30 o'clock between M. Witte on the part of Russia and Baron Komura on the part of Japan.

The plenipotentiaries and their attendants went to the navy yard from the Hotel Wentworth in automobiles.

Both Japanese and Russians arose early and all of them had breakfast in the main dining hall with other guests, except M. Witte and Baron Rosen, who breakfasted in their rooms.

Arrangements have been made by

Secretaries Honda of the Japanese party and Shipoff of the Russian party for the calling of members of either party on members of the other.

There is less restraint among the personnel of the commissions than at first;

in fact, they may be said to be fraternizing excellently.

The outlook for peace was never so good as it is today.

The Japanese and the Japanese have been here but a day, but they have let it be known, in various ways, that the recent pessimism of M. Witte and of Baron Komura has been for effect only.

The Russians desire peace ardently.

They know they must have it.

The Japanese want peace also as ardently as the Russians. They have had their fill of fighting. They have established their principle. They desire to reap the fruits of their victories.

It can be stated as absolute, without qualification of any sort, that the Russians will go to great lengths, even to the length of paying an indemnity, to get peace.

M. Witte is opposed to an indemnity, as such. He is not opposed in his heart to paying a sum of money to Japan

if a way can be found by which that payment will not be too humiliating.

Being a diplomat, Witte is willing to walk around the mountain of a cash payment to Japan instead of climbing over it. He has talked and still is talking against any kind of a cash payment whatever. He is looking for a way to save such a payment over in order that his country may have peace and an opportunity to settle its internal troubles without the vexations and disasters of such a war as is now waging.

It is, of course, impossible to quote M.

Witte to this effect. It is unlikely, indeed, that he has ever put this idea into words. But this can be put down as absolute: He has given, and again today is giving, every minute, to those around him the impression that he is willing to make great sacrifices for peace, and that the Czar expects him to conclude the war with the smallest possible concessions he can make, but that the Czar also expects the minimum will be very large.

The Russians are whipped. They know it. When they talk among themselves they do not cover up this idea situation with sophistry about this being a colonial war and the similar line of talk that has been put out since they

SAVED BY BROTHER; WEDS HIS WIDOW

William Velky Gave His Life to Nurse Andrew From Fever.

"TAKE CARE OF FAMILY"

In Obeying Injunction Andrew Falls in Love With Sister-in-Law.

Andrew Velky considers that he has fulfilled the vow he made to his half-brother, William, on the latter's deathbed, in letter and spirit. He has married the widow who was committed to his protection and become a stepfather to the fatherless children who were left in his care.

This is his way of repaying William for saving his life at the cost of his own.

William Velky nursed Andrew Velky safely through an attack of typhoid fever. When Andrew was restored to health William took to his bed with the disease and never arose from it.

Five years ago William Velky had married a handsome, black-haired young woman, and when he realized that he was going to die the thought of leaving her and their children, without provision for their welfare, concerned him most.

Before he died he called Andrew to his bedside and made him promise that no matter what happened he would always take care of the widow and the children. Andrew promised without hesitation because he knew that if it had not been for his brother's careful nursing he would have died himself.

William died and was buried and Andrew took up the burden of caring for the family. That was eight months ago. Before very long he made up his mind that he could better fulfill his vow if he was the husband of the widow.

He spoke to her about it. She at first demurred because her husband had been such a short time dead, but at last she assented, and Tuesday morning they were married at Holy Trinity Church, on Park avenue, near Twelfth street.

WED IN MISSOURI; EVADE NEW LAW

Illinois Divorcee, Prohibited From Marrying There in Year, Comes Here.

FIRST CASE RECORDED

Springfield Couple, After Ceremony, Explain Reason for Crossing the River.

"We're from Springfield, Ill.," said Frank Brunner to Justice of the Peace Robert J. Carroll, when the latter had married him and Mrs. Lizzie W. Baldwin Wednesday morning. "My wife was divorced from her former husband less than twelve months ago. We came to St. Louis to be married because of the Illinois law which forbids the marriage of a divorcee within one year from the time when the divorce was obtained."

This is the first case of a wedding taking place in St. Louis owing to the new Illinois law.

The former Mrs. Baldwin was a handsome, aristocratic looking woman, and both she and Brunner were exceptionally well dressed. They made no further confidences to the Justice and left the scene in a carriage immediately after the ceremony.

RUNAWAY SCARES MARKET CROWD

Frightened Horse Dashes Through Throng of Women and Children on Souldard.

THREE MEN ARE HURT

Hucksters' Stalls Knocked Over by Bounding Wagon—Car Started Animal.

Alarm among several hundred women and children in Souldard Market was caused by a runaway horse attached to a light wagon from which Joseph Webber, a contractor of 1355 South Main street, had just been driven, dashing at full speed through the market place Wednesday.

The horse had become frightened at a Cherokee street car on Ninth street and ran to Ninth and Julia streets, where it suddenly swerved and galloped madly into and through the market.

Several hucksters stalls were knocked over by the careening wagon and Isaac Silverstein, 20 years old, of 1067 Wash street, was struck, his left leg and arm being bruised.

The women and children fled screaming in every direction.

An ambulance called and Silverstein was sent to the Central Dispensary, where he was taken to his home, his father that he could not account for his actions since leaving the ship. As if he were in a trance, he says, he wandered away from New York.

THREE OF DENVER'S BANKS IN TROUBLE

Western Fails to Open and Assistant Cashier Is Made Assignee.

RUN ON 2 SAVINGS BANKS

Denver Gives Depositors Ten Per Cent and Central Pays in Full.

DENVER, Aug. 9.—The Western Bank, a State institution, failed to open today. A notice was posted announcing that Henry M. Beatty, assistant cashier of the bank, had been appointed assignee.

W. B. Brown is President and W. T. Perkins cashier of the Western Bank. Up to 11 o'clock no statement was made by the officers of the bank. It is understood that a run on the bank was feared, as L. A. Imboden, one of the principal stockholders of the Denver Savings Bank, on which a run is being made, is also interested in the Western. The Western's deposits are in the neighborhood of $1,000,000.

According to the bank's statement made on July 1, 1905, its resources and liabilities had shrunk during the previous year from $25,338 to $18,465. The amount of deposits on July 1 last was $814,678 and the loans and discounts were $62,658. The bank's capital is $100,000 and its surplus $100,000.

The run on the Denver Savings Bank which began yesterday was resumed today. There were about 300 people in line when the bank opened at 10 o'clock. The Central Savings Bank also experienced a run, but paid all depositors in full on demand.

At the end of the conference, the two chiefs would not discuss the matter. Mr. Lee declined to make any statement. Later Chief Desmond said there was a report of a small embezzlement and it was being investigated.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—Nothing further having been heard from former Crop Statistician John Hyde since he came back to St. Louis after his scandal, other officials of the Agricultural Department have become skeptical.

They do not believe Hyde intends to come back at all. Hyde also said that he had sent a letter to the Agricultural Department, but it had been received.

Secretary Wilson was averse to discussing the matter. He still believes that Hyde will return.

Brakeman Remembers Nothing of Accident Except Trying to Jump on Car.

Jerome Salts, lying in St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Belleville, bandaged so that his eyes are closed and nothing of his face except the mouth is visible, can tell little of the accident that nearly cost him his life. He is a brakeman employed by the Illinois Central.

"I had thrown a switch at Tilden," he said, "and then tried to jump onto a car. My hand slipped and my foot caught. That is the last I remember until I woke up here in the hospital. I have a dim recollection of turning a somersault or two, but I am not certain about it and I guess that I was knocked senseless the first thing."

Salts' foot became loosened after he had been dragged head downwards over the ties for half a mile. Fellow employees found him and took him to the hospital. One ear was nearly torn off, but the surgeons hope to save it.

Pretty, 17, and Puzzled Is Girl Whose Lover Asks Police to Arrest Rival

MYRTLE HADDON

Frightened Lover Makes Wild Run Through Streets
Closely Pursued by More Hot-Headed Swain—Girl Gives Warning of Impending Tragedy.

Why shouldn't men fight over her, carry revolvers through the streets and appeal to the police on her account? Pretty 17-year-old Myrtle Haddon, 1515 Chestnut street, doesn't know. "Of course," she shrugs her expressive shoulders as she admits it, "of course it's bad for them to fight. But (the men) What can you expect of them when they think a girl's pretty or think they love her?"

Obviously, there's no answer to this question. You couldn't make the right answer to Myrtle, at least, when she smiles the query. She discusses her troublous love affairs with a naivete that is almost startling at times.

Asked about the little incident of Tuesday afternoon when Chris Frinck chased Frank Zahnow through Sixteenth street, placing Zahnow in mortal terror thereby and causing him to appeal to the police for protection, she treated the matter as part of her daily routine.

Says Both Love Her.
"Frank and Chris both love me," Mrs. Haddon announced, calmly, just as though she were remarking that the young men were acquaintances. "When my husband and I parted two years ago—Oh, yes, indeed, I'm married. Jeff—Jeff Haddon, my husband, still loves me, too, or says he does, and he looks like it. But I don't care for him now. He left me a month after we were married, when I was only 15. I'm not quite 17 now."

"Well, when Jeff and I were married, Mr. Frinck—Chris—was in love with me, too. Mamma liked him better than Jeff, but papa was for Jeff, and it didn't make much difference to me. After Jeff left me, Chris came back, and he's been taking me places since then."

Thinks Much of Frank.
Frank Zahnow, who lives at the Louise here, wants me to be his sweetheart, and I do think a great deal of Frank, lots more, I guess, since Chris acted the way he did yesterday."

"I found out that Chris was carrying a revolver and I thought he might hurt Frank if they met, so I told Frank. Frank stayed away from him like I asked him to, until 6 o'clock, when they met. To avoid from him, but Chris ran after him. Frank went into the University Hotel at Pine and Sixteenth streets, and called for the police. The police couldn't find Frank and I don't know where he is now."

"That's all I know about it, except that I wish the boys would quit making trouble over me."

The police end of the story is that Capt. Reynolds at Central district Tuesday evening received a very urgent, personal call from a young man, who explained that he was about to be murdered at the University Hotel. A very rapid run by the police wagon did not get the officers there in time to catch Frinck, but Zahnow's life was found intact.

ST. LOUIS GETS THE 'DOLORES' PREMIERE

First Performance of the New Shubert Comic Opera Will Be Given Here.

St. Louis is to have the premiere of "Dolores," a new comic opera to be produced by the Shuberts. The first performance of it will be given at the Garrick Theater, Sept. 2. It is understood that this will be the Garrick's opening.

"Dolores" was written by George Broadhurst and William Lorraine, and the star of it is Charles E. Evans, the comedian. The Shuberts and Evans have organized a corporation to produce the piece. It is known as the Charles E. Evans company, and the directors are Charles E. Evans, Lee and Jacob Shubert and William Klein.

The Shuberts are making each of their productions a distinct organization, each of their stars and plays to be managed by a company especially incorporated for that purpose.

Behind the roar of arms at the Suburban Park Theater this week there is a very interesting announcement. "A Doll's House," one of the plays of Henrik Ibsen, the world's foremost living dramatist, will be produced by Melbourne MacDowell and his players next week. These plays are so rarely produced in St. Louis that the opportunity to see one is always eagerly accepted by the thousands of playgoers who know something of the works of the famous Norwegian. Last season we had but one performance of an Ibsen play in St. Louis—"Hedda Gabler," by Blanche Bates, and two years ago we had but one—"Hedda Gabler," by Mrs. Fiske. Therefore, our average of late is one in a season, which is scarcely compatible with the genius of Ibsen.

"The Runaway Girl," one of the best of the musical pieces of former seasons, will be produced by the Delmar Comic Opera Company next week, opening with a matinee Sunday afternoon. The season at Delmar has advanced to that stage which necessitates some lively skirmishing for pieces. Not all the old musical comedies are available, and more of them are unobtainable. The repertoire of those that can be secured and are good enough to be put on is not great, and it is only out of the vast experience of Stage Manager Jones that the management is able to handle the situation as well as it does. Jones has been a stage manager for 10,000 years. He has seen everything and has had something to do with the staging of most of the plays that have been produced in America a number of times before Columbus discovered it, and he handles the matter of a chorus girl brigade under

400 PIECES IN BAND TO PLAY FRIDAY

Music of March of Musicians From Old to New Home to Be Loud.

"O, listen to the band!"
Everybody listen Friday morning. No matter in what part of St. Louis you may be, listen! The greatest band of music ever aggregated in this city will begin playing at 10 a. m., and if size determines the volume of sound it is loud to be heard from Baden to Carondelet. There will be 400 pieces in this monster band, 400 hornblowers and drumsticks rattling working lustily in unison.

The occasion is the grand march of the Aschenbrosel Club, composed of the bandmen of St. Louis, from its old quarters at Olive and Eighteenth streets, to its new home, 3535 Pine street. It is not intended that the removal shall be an ordinary affair with its big parade, but rather a lively affair will be given. There will be personages in carriages and a squad of policemen, and there will be the wonderful consolidated band.

"Auld Lang Syne" will be played as a parting tribute to the old home. When the line of march has been formed at Locust and Eighteenth streets, however, nothing but lively airs will be heard. The route to be traversed is as follows: On Locust to Leonard, south on Leonard to Olive, west on Olive to Grand, south on Grand to Pine street and the new clubhouse.

There will be speechmaking and more music when the parade ends.

OPEN UNTIL 10 O'CLOCK TONIGHT.

Salada Tea Sells Well.
The increase in the consumption of "Salada" in the United States and Canada during the first six months of this year over the corresponding period of 1904 has been phenomenal. It amounted to 256,885 pounds. This amounts to as much tea as is consumed in the same time by half a million people, so that there are practically half a million people more drinking "Salada" today than there were this time last year.

"My Lady Slavey," at Delmar Garden

Joan of Arc when that redoubtable young lady moved her corps upon the enemy at Meun. Jones has seen every performer from the strolling players employed by Hamlet to the new girl who will join the Delmar chorus next week. He can whistle the music of 4000 musical comedies, 800 comic operas and part of one grand opera. He has seen every dance ever invented, from that of St. Vitus down to the wiggles invention of the skittish William Clifton. He occupies that professional perspective where he holds the whole entertainment world in the hollow of his hand like a watermelon, and if Jones thumps it with his knowing forefinger and says it is ripe, that is enough for the ecstatic Modesty and inch planking hide Jones from the audience, but he is there.

"Du Barry" will follow "Sapho" at the West End Heights Theater. Miss Ethel Fuller making her first appearance in the famous tragedy next Sunday afternoon. The piece was written by David Belasco and was produced here two seasons ago by Mrs. Leslie Carter. It did a tremendous business, the gross receipts at the Olympic for the week being some $22,000. The part of the milliner who became the favorite of the King of France is well suited to the exceptional dramatic style of Miss Fuller, and anyone who has seen her will guess that she will make a great deal of her opportunity. It is surprising that Belasco would consent to this production of "Du Barry," which has not had its day in St. Louis by any means. The fact that it is to be produced at a summer garden, with a garden's limitations, doubtless explains.

The improvements at Havill's Theater are complete, and everything is in shape for the opening of the season next Sunday afternoon. The local "More How Hearts Are Broken," by Langdon McCormick, Havill's prices this year will be 15, 25, 35 and 50 cents, and there will be 2-cent matinees on Sunday, Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

Louis Casavant is to sing the part of King Owl in "Woodland" this season. Possibly Mr. Casavant can persuade this flock of birds in its way this season. They have been roosting around one place and another for two seasons, but St. Louis has never had a sight of the Fixley-Luders adaptation of ornithology to the stage.

Expression of Thanks

Since the fact has become public that we are having a magnificent building erected in Saint Louis at the corner of Vandeventer Avenue and Delmar Boulevard, in which we shall open a Commercial School on September 5th, we have been favored with congratulations from many of our friends and we have been most cordially received by many prominent business men of Saint Louis.

This interest manifested in our enterprise is very gratifying, and causes us to believe that our efforts are appreciated and that the people of Saint Louis and the great Mississippi Valley have confidence in our work as commercial teachers.

We regard this expression of confidence and friendship most highly, and it is with a deep sense of gratitude we offer our sincere thanks to our friends and patrons for their kind words and to the people of Saint Louis for their cordial reception.

FOUR BEATEN BY TALLYHO PARTY

Victims Say Assailants Objected to Their Vocal Efforts at Early Hour.

Four young men who room at 1222 Olive street, three of whom came to the city recently, reported to the police today that they had been attacked and beaten by the members of a tallyho party at 2 a. m. Wednesday at Eighth and Chestnut streets.

The young men said they had been singing and that their music was evidently not pleasing to the men and women on the tallyho. The men jumped from the wagon and by reason of their numbers, three being eight of them, gave the four men the worst of the fight.

William Wilson, who says his home is in California, received a scalp wound and a bruised chin, and Fred Elaberry, also of California, had his ear cut. Others who said they were assaulted were Oscar Anderson of Minneapolis and H. W. Gross, employed in the mailing room of the Globe-Democrat. No arrests have yet been made by the police on descriptions given by the young men.

ATTACK ON GIRL AT WEDDING DANCE

Man, Thinking Her Impolite, Beat Her Into Unconsciousness With Fists.

SAT IN ANOTHER'S CHAIR

Ashley Building Scene of Trouble Which Broke Up Marriage Celebration.

Miss Catherine Bannock, 21 years old, is at the City Hospital with many cuts and bruises, which were inflicted on her because another guest at an Ashley Building wedding considered her impolite.

Frank Golaszewski, who is alleged to have assaulted her with his fists and a beer bottle, is being sought by the police.

The assault is an Ashley Building mystery.

So far the police have learned the only provocation given by Miss Bannock was to take the chair which another woman had vacated at a wedding celebration.

Joe Gullish and Valeria Kovackich were married Tuesday at the Catholic Church, at Eighth and Mulanphy streets. At night there was a celebration in a hall in the rear of the saloon of Joseph Orzoe, in the Ashley Building.

Dancing and drinking and plate-breaking with coins for the privilege of dancing with the bride continued until 1:30 on Wednesday, when there was a lull for rest.

Women Quarrel First.

The women quarreled and Frank Golaszewski and his wife took sides with Mrs. Little later Miss Braddock went upstairs on her way to her room. The wedding guests were startled a moment later by loud screams coming from the top of the stairs on the second floor. They rushed out of the hall and saw Golaszewski raining blows on Miss Braddock with a broken beer glass.

After he had inflicted a number of gashes on her head and face he escaped.

Policeman Chesnik, who had been at the celebration all evening, but had just left, heard the commotion and ran back. He found the girl lying unconscious at the top of the stairs. She was sent to the City Hospital. Her condition Wednesday was serious.

The assault broke up the wedding festivities for the night, but they were renewed Wednesday morning in the apartment of the bride couple on the second floor of the Ashley Building. There was alternate feasting and dancing. Wednesday night there will be another dance and more plate spinning in the hall back of the saloon.

VAN-CAMP CREAM TOMATO SOUP

YOU'LL never know how good real Tomato Soup is till you try some of this. You'll find it rich, creamy and altogether delicious. Then it's nutritious, for it contains all the food elements the body requires. Yet 14 cents will make enough of this delicious soup for 8 people—think of that, less than 2 cents a plate. (See recipe below.)

For Coffee, Tea or Cooking, Van Camp Cream is finer than even the most expensive Cream. Because, it has a body, a substance, and a faint suggestion of Almond flavor, that becomes delightfully prominent in all Dishes into which it has been cooked.

Besides, it will keep for years, in its sealed Tins, and is always ready for use precisely when you need it.

There is no waste with it, because when a Pint Tin has been opened it will keep for a week in the refrigerator, or for two days in the Sideboard, even in very hot weather.

That's because the Germs that produce Souring, Decay, and Disease, have all been Sterilized out of Van Camp Cream, before it is sealed in air tight tins.

No Milk in America is handled with greater cleanliness, nor greater sanitary precautions.

A whole case, from your Grocer costs only $4.50 for 48 Tins; equal to 9 cents.

This gives you the finest Cream in America. It contains over 12 per cent of Butter Fat, and has all the other solid, strength-giving qualities, of whole Milk besides.

Most Milk sold by the Dairies contains only the legal standard of Butter Fat—viz: 2 1/2 to 3 1/2 per cent.

Van Camp Sterilized Cream, can have 3 Pints of Water added to every 10-cent Pint of it, and still produce "3 per cent Butter Fat" Milk. This gives you STERILIZED Milk at 3 1/2 Cents a quart.

But, used as Cream, in Coffee, Tea, or Cooking, it is incomparable. You'll say so when you try it once. Compare results with the most expensive fresh Dairy Cream.

Van Camp Sterilized Cream, double-thick, costs you only 9 cents a tin, in case packages, at your Grocers. Or, pay Ten cents for a trial Can.

Write for our new Cook Book entitled "Van Camp's Delicious Cream Dishes."

It will be mailed free, on request, from—Van Camp Packing Co., Indianapolis, Ind.

RECIPE—Creamed Tomato Soup.

1 cup Van Camp Cream 1/2 lb. 1/2 cup Van Camp Tomatoes 1/2 lb. 1/2 cup butter 1/2 lb. 1/2 cup flour 1/2 lb.

For eight people. Free enough cooked tomatoes through a fine sieve to make one cup and a half; let the puree become very hot. Melt one-fourth a cup of butter; cook in it one-fourth a cup of flour, a dash of pepper and a scant teaspoonful of salt. When the mixture is frothy, gradually stir in one cup of Van Camp's Sterilized Cream, diluted with one cup of water. Stir and cook until the sauce boils vigorously; then add the hot puree and remove from the fire at once. In serving, sprinkle with cubes of bread, browned in butter over the soup in each plate.

LEAGUE PARK, Aug. 9.—The third game of the Brooklyn-Cardinal series drew a fair crowd to League Park this afternoon. The Cardinals put out an unusually energetic practice and their fast work evoked considerable applause. Vice-President Robison has returned from his little jaunt and is again directing the destinies of the club. He says his mission while away was a private one. Hanlon, before the game, spoke words of praise of Batch, his little third baseman. "Batch was one of the poorest fielders I ever saw," said "Foxy" Ned, "when I stationed him at third base. But his great hitting led me to give him a trial. Two months he has been an entire metamorphosis in his work and at the present time he is as clever a baseman as there is in the National League." McFarland and McIntyre are the probable pitchers carded for today, although Burke and Hanlon both said they would make no definite choice until after the preliminary warm-ups.

Counterfeits in St. Genevieve Good Only When New.

Deputy United States Marshal Nall returned Wednesday from St. Genevieve, bringing some of the counterfeit quarters and half dollars which John A. Tidwell, arrested there Saturday night, is alleged to have passed. The counterfeiters are excellent, with the exception of the plating, which soon wears off. Their perfection otherwise leads to the supposition that they were not made in the usual plant of Paris mounds, but were stamped or made in metal molds. The authorities are still looking for the young man who was with Tidwell when he was arrested, but who got away from the policeman who made the arrest. Deputy Nall says the counterfeit coins were widely scattered over St. Genevieve before the man was arrested. Tidwell has refused to tell anything about himself and no clue has been obtained as to where the coins were made.

SPORT NOTES.

Louis Baptiste, acting for his brother George, is willing to post a forfeit for a wrestling bout between Louis Kung and George Baptiste. Baptiste stipulates that the match must be at catch-as-catch-can style and for a side wager. Thirty association football players will arrive in St. Louis Saturday for the All England-Scotland team, Sept. 23 and 24. Capt. John Miller of New Orleans, one-time champion billiard player of New Orleans, was a visitor here Tuesday. The next local event of importance to gamblers will be the contest for the Faust cup, which will be decided on the Mississippi River within the next few weeks. The Mount City expect their track four to carry off honors in at least two of the events at the national regatta, at Baltimore, this week. The splendid exhibition of Hal Garette at Waterworks Park last Sunday has been the subject of much comment. Dr. W. C. Garette held an excellent record over the fast little animal. Aquatic experts are hard at work for the swimming championships of the world, to be held at the Lake of Geneva, Sept. 15. It is probable there will be several Chicago competitors for the championships.

SSS FOR THE BLOOD

"S. S. S. for the blood" has grown to be a household saying. When the blood is out of order, or needs treatment from any cause, this great remedy is the first thought of and used by thousands of people all over the country, because it is superior to all other blood purifiers. It is a purely vegetable remedy, and while it penetrates the circulation and forces out all poison and morbid matter, it also builds up the entire system by its fine tonic effect. During the winter months the natural avenues of bodily waste have become dull and weak and failed to perform their full duty, the blood has been sluggish and an extra amount of poisons and waste matters have accumulated in the system and been absorbed by it. With the coming of Spring and warm weather the blood is aroused and stirred to quicker action and in its effort to throw off these acids and poisons the skin suffers. Boils, pimples, blotches, rashes and eruptions break out and continue until the blood is cleansed and made pure. S. S. S. is the ideal remedy for this condition; it clears the blood of all impurities, makes it rich and strong and these skin troubles pass away. Rheumatism, Catarrh, Chronic Sores and Ulcers, Scrofula, Contagious Blood Poison and all other diseases of the blood are cured by S. S. S. Book on the blood and any advice desired, free of charge.

A FOE TO ST. LOUIS' PROSPERITY

JAPANESE PING-PONG

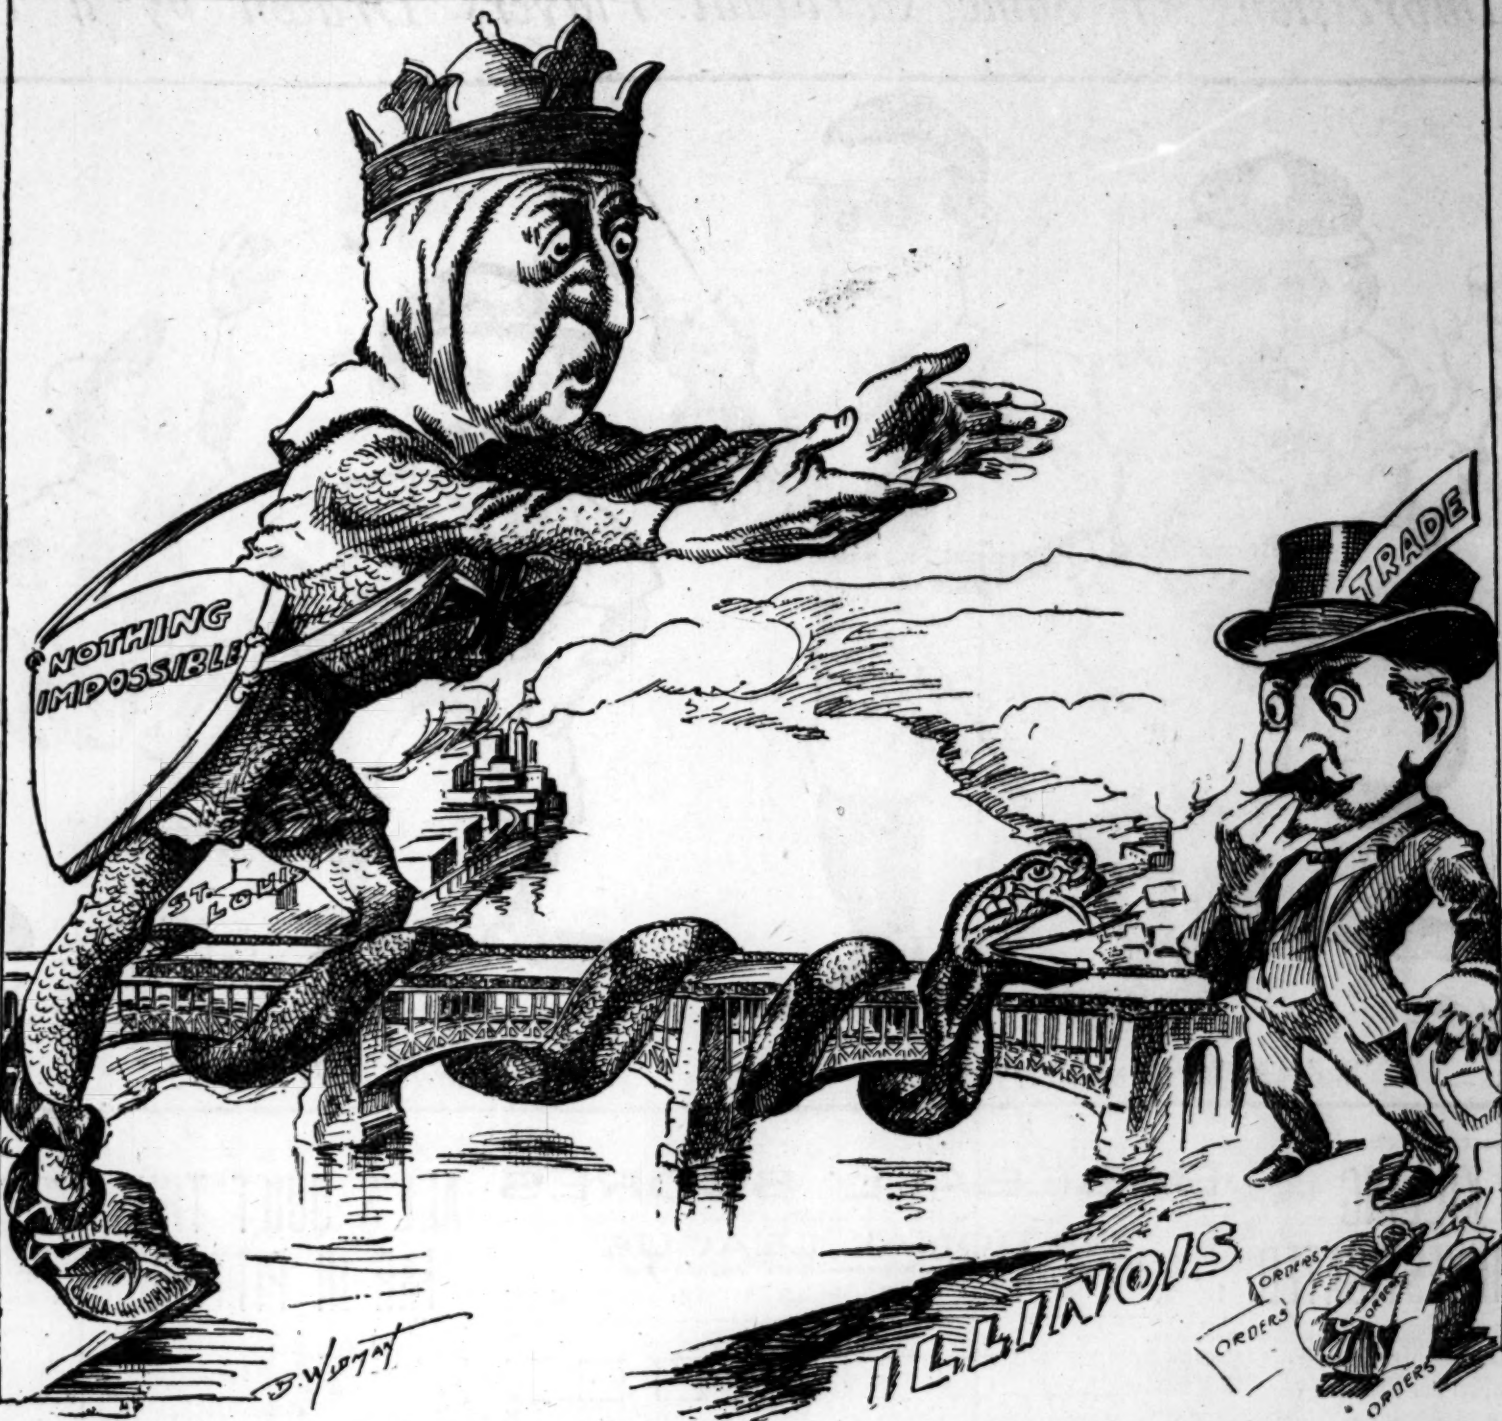

The Wily, Smiley Oriental Collects an Indemnity From St. Louisan.

"I HOPE Russia will refuse to pay the war indemnity demanded by Japan," said the St. Louisan who spent his week's vacation in a mad whirl among St. Louis' summer-garden resorts. "Why?" asked the man at the next desk. "It can't make you any the poorer, can it, since you had to draw your salary in advance to pay the freight on your stay-at-home holiday?" "Yes, and the Japanese got my money!" snorted the returned vacationist. "They took it away from me at Japanese ping-pong, confound 'em—from me and my wife together." "How did it happen?" again queried his companion in penury, whose own vacation had been spent abroad—about 200 miles from St. Louis—abroad. "And what the mischief is Japanese ping-pong, anyway?" "It's a gold-brick game based on woman's weakness for souvenirs," grunted the victim. "And the Japanese don't need any indemnity from Russia. If frost doesn't come early this year, they'll separate St. Louisans from enough money to pay the cost of their dad-blamed war with the Czar. I can't see that a ping-pong Jap's a bit better than a fan-tan chink!" "Very interesting," chuckled the man at the other desk, "but still it fails to enlighten me as to what Japanese ping-pong is." "Japanese ping-pong," said the returned vacationist moodily, "is a sort of roly-poly diversion in which two blithering idiots, generally man and wife, or headed in that direction, try to roll balls down a little incline plane so they will fall into numbered holes at the other end. You get prizes according to the numbers of the holes in which you place the balls." "Well, what more do you want?" asked the man at the other desk. "That gives you a chance for your money's worth, doesn't it?" "Your money's worth, exploded the returned one. "Say, I've got the meagrest collection of job-lot Japanese bric-a-bras at my house that you ever saw in all your born days. The World's Fair wasn't a marker to it—and it's what me and my wife won playing Japanese ping-pong at the Alps and Delmar Garden and Suburban Park and elsewhere on the outskirts of this Jap-bunced community. My wife can't look at it without blushing and it makes me swear in 17 different languages. I'll prove what I say. I'll show you the whole blamed outfit, if she'll let me."

"Can't you get rid of it by distributing it among friends for birthday and wedding presents and the like?" suggested the other. "Say, look here, where've you been this summer?" asked the returned vacationist indignantly. "You don't know your St. Louis of August, 1905, a little bit. I just dare you to make any resident St. Louisan a present of a Japanese ping-pong souvenir—a doubledog dare you! The market's glutted with 'em, all won playing the dodgedog game, and you can't crook your finger in a St. Louis home these days without danger of upsetting a bunch of 'em. They cost the Japs about 'steen cents a thousand—and they cost us about 50 cents apiece, five games at 10 cents per set is the average roll. And by the time the first game ends your wife has got the Japanese ping-pong-gamble souvenir fever and you couldn't drag her away from the table with a yoke of oxen. Oh, it's a fine game—nit!" "But you have fun playing it, don't you?" asked the man at the other desk. "Fun!" repeated the returned vacationist. "Yes, oh yes, lots of fun for the crowd that's guyin' you and for the Jap that's leading you and your wife on to waste your substance in riotous living. And it's fun for your wife, too, till she sees you pull out your roll and notices how much you have to pay and then looks at what she's got in return for the money. After that she's Mrs. R. E. Morse—and then both of you ride home on the cars like you were going to the funeral of your best friend and every time the jar falls the ping-pong souvenirs rattle in your pockets as if you were a junk wagon!" "Fine game," commented the man at the other desk. "You bet it is—foe the Japs!" growled the returned vacationist. "If I have anything to say about it, Russia won't give up a cent of her gold money to Japan. St. Louis is paying war indemnity all right, all right."

IT STRIKES ME

FITTER, East St. Louis tailor, ought to be a ladies' tailor, or change his name to I. Fittin.

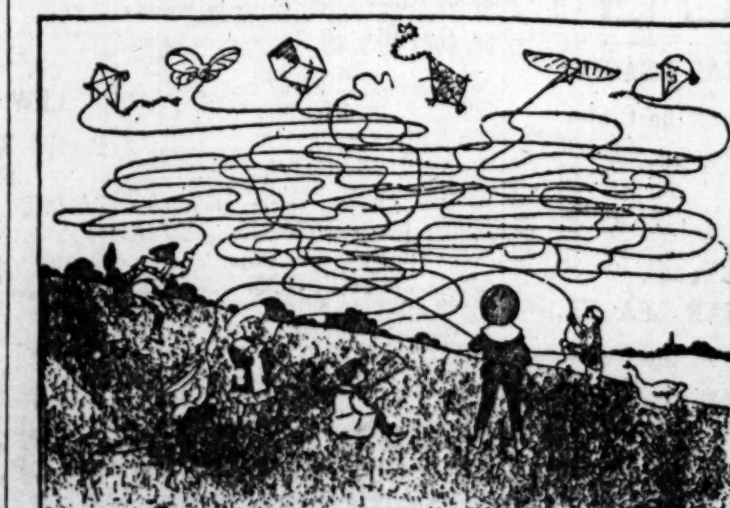

A GOOD-LOOKING young woman delivered milk at 5 o'clock the other morning missed the right novelty in trades. She drove the horse with the skill of experience and jumped in and out of the vehicle nimbly. But it did not look exactly right. Seems to me that if I were a woman I would rather be a barber than drive a milk wagon.

PEOPLE who don't like the lid have more cause for complaint this year than they will have for 110 years to come. There are fifty-three Sundays this year and that will not happen for ten years more than a century again. But there is at least the consolation of knowing that they will never have to spend fifty-three dry Sundays in one year on this earth again.

THERE is scant consolation for the householder whose gas meter works overtime in the reflection that some other householder's gas meter works under time. Of course all gas users will be gratified to learn from President O'Reilly of the Board of Public Improvements that the gas company loses nothing in the long run, because they all love the gas company, but still the man with the ambitious meter would like to know how he is going to come out in the long run.

AS being distinctly remarkable that good peaches are so scarce in St. Louis at this time. The old-fashioned cry of a "failure of the peach crop" has not been heard of yore, and yet really first-class peaches are almost as rare as hens' teeth. Surely the Equitable blight that has fallen on Chauncey Dewey, "The Peach," cannot have spread to all the rest of this fruit without exciting special comment. What's the matter with the peach crop—not including Chauncey?

NEW-YORK EDITORIAL OPINION

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—The World says:
"Gov. Folk is reported to smoke twenty cigars a day."
"The curious will be impelled to institute a quantitative comparison with Mr. Jerome's cigarettes, while reflecting on a relation of tobacco consumption to capability in reform officials. The censorious will have their criticisms answered by Lincoln's remarks about Grant's whisky. The judicious may be left to grieve not at the indulgence, but over the danger of 'tobacco heart' incapacitating a man whose public service makes his health something more than a private matter between him and his doctor."

"Except for that consideration the State will have little occasion for concern about the personal habits of its official servants. How much a man smokes or drinks, whether he is straightlaced or a 'good fellow,' is his own affair. His efficiency is the thing and by that test almost solely he is tried."

"The question is not the smoking of twenty cigars a day or various packages of cigarettes, but the ability and capacity which may go with the devotion to a weed, as in a Blomberg, or a Chamberlain, or in the ever familiar case of Grant."

The Sun remarks that "In summer 'everything goes' and nothing sits more than a languid interest. It is the halcyon time of sea serpents and krakens, of negroes turning white, of turtles with the date 342 B. C. inscribed in gothic gold, and of premature Presidential booms."

It then tells of Mr. Shaw's boom and Mr. Fairbank's boom and Mr. Beveridge's boom and continues: "Yet old instigators can't help grinning. They know that the pot of gold behind the sunset is a good contingent remainder compared to these precocious chances. Any one of a hundred events now hidden in the schedules of fate may knock all present political calculations into a hodgepodge."

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

"Hold Down That Lid?"
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
Public bath houses or cheap rents do not seem to interest St. Louisans half so much as the "lid" question. Is it getting so the people living here cannot exist without beer? All the advertising the city is getting abroad won't help to bring a million people here. What chance have we not to annex people when we impress them? The children are brought up on beer? Hold down that lid and we will have less drunkards.
FANCIS.

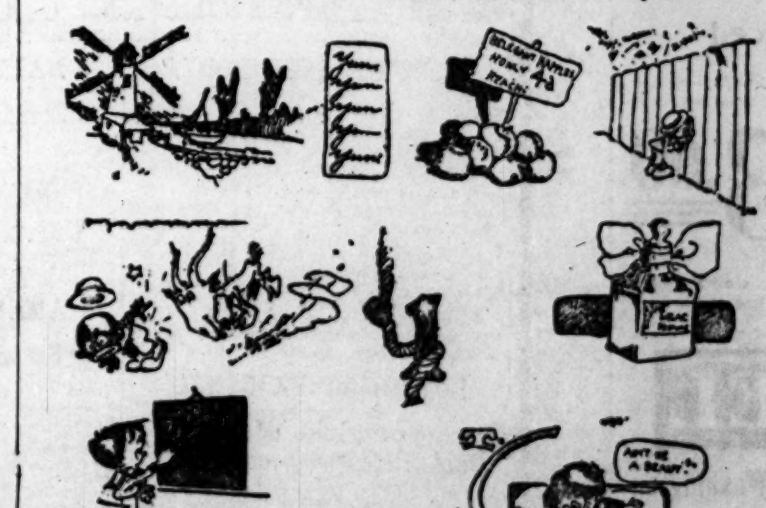

Passengers at Union Station.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
We have a fine Union Station, but improved management is desirable. Passengers coming in on the C. & O. and M. & T. in the morning are unloaded at the south end of the train shed. Why? Because there is a long line of cars already on the tracks. Then again, passengers have to dodge ice trucks, express trucks, and open holes where baggage comes from subways. Is there no relief?
EDWIN HARRISON.

Sanitation at Panama.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
Why in the name of common sense doesn't the Government build some decent houses in Panama for Americans who go there to work? I have talked with a young man who recently returned from Panama. He says the Government did not even furnish them with pure drinking water. They could get boiled water without ice by walking about a mile for it. Ice is very expensive there because the Panama Republic has sold the right to make ice to a monopoly.
If the Government would erect an ice plant, build new houses for the Americans, have them properly screened, put an electric fan in each room and not over two men to the room, furnish its employees with good food and pure ice-cold drinking water, they would certainly succeed better in keeping Americans down there. Why they did not do this in the first place is a puzzle to me. Couldn't they learn anything from the experience of the French? To Panama acquaintance says that old French residents there laugh at American inefficiency. If anyone knows what the Government intends to do to relieve the situation there I hope he will speak out, giving his authority.

No doubt Togo has been carefully studying the maneuvers of the hostile fleets of Mississippi and Louisiana.

COST OF PURE MILK.

Tuesday's Post-Dispatch contained much valuable information in regard to the distribution of pure milk and free ice among the poor of St. Louis.

It appears that the small sum charged for the pasteurized milk, of those who are able to pay, does not meet the expense of pasteurizing and distribution. There is a deficit of $600 a month to be met by contribution to the fund.

This does not include the cost of the ice which is freely given to families too poor to buy it. Without ice, the pure milk charity would be almost a failure, because it is among the very poor that this charity is needed to save life.

As the total amount raised for the Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund was but $833.45 up to and including Tuesday, it is evident that much more must be raised in order to meet all cases of need during the remaining weeks of hot weather. It will not be creditable to St. Louis if the pure milk stations are compelled to close for lack of funds. The babies' lives must be saved. Have you done your part in this good work?

The chauffeur thinks he is going 15 miles an hour when he is going 50. Until this miscalculation ceases, his employer will surely be called upon to "raise the wind" in court.

EDUCATING OUR IMMIGRANTS.

Investigation showed that the Italian immigrants in New Orleans were living in a very unsanitary condition. As every one knows, immigrants of several nationalities are living in filth in New York and many other cities. They bring with them the primitive ideas of their own lands. And what do they find here?

On the way over they have been crowded like cattle on the large and handsome liners, which provide palatial accommodation for well-to-do passengers. And when they get here they are compelled, by high rents and lack of cheap transit facilities, to crowd into the slums and rookeries which are sometimes as bad as those which London, Glasgow and other progressive European cities have condemned and pulled down.

Outside their new quarters, they see uncleaned streets and alleys, uncollected garbage and—in New Orleans, for instance—undrained tracts, overflowing sewers and vacant lots littered with refuse and rank weeds.

Is it any wonder if, seeing all this, they conclude that they have come to a country where nobody cares?

Speaker Cannon pleads for economy. But we must have more battlefields to maintain the peace which President Roosevelt is strenuously promoting.

LIFE AT COURT.

Mrs. Paget's dinner to the King was the subject of a most important cablegram published in the Sunday Post-Dispatch.

It appears that Mrs. Paget took "immense trouble over everything." While in Germany the lady studied new German dishes, and it is said that King Edward approved the menu. Moreover, "it was amusing to see Mrs. Hall-Walker using all her arts to keep up the royal favor and Mrs. George Keppel assuming first place, while Mrs. Paget endeavored to assuage these rivalries."

Mrs. George Keppel has enjoyed the royal favor for a long time. Mrs. Hall-Walker is a new star, and as one star differs from another in glory, so the two rivals for royal favor differ from one another. But Mrs. Hall-Walker has the advantage, in that she is recent. Recency is a great help to a lady striving to obtain the royal favor. The new glory is apt to be preferred, because it is new. And of course Mrs. George Keppel is all a-flutter.

All these ladies are no doubt excellent women, but they are enmeshed in a web of artificiality. They have lost the knack of being natural and their minds are coupled exclusively by interests which have no vital connection with anything sane or wholesome.

And yet court life is probably no more insane now than in the good old days. Perhaps the number of women and men who keep their good sense in the smothering atmosphere of royal favor is greater than in the days of George III and Louis XVI. In one respect at least there is an improvement. Then everybody took court doing seriously. Now nobody but the participants thinks of them but as a jest. That is a considerable gain.

The Motor Age, in an interesting article on the roads of St. Louis County, points out that the speed madness will not be so prevalent when, under state regulation motorists are required to place their license numbers in front of the car, instead of behind, where the cloud of dust makes them invisible. Why not have the number both in front and at the rear, so that a car driven at a reckless pace could be identified from either point?

RUSSIA'S HONOR.

Writers who try to support the notion that Russia cannot be expected to make a peace which would disparage honor might find it difficult to define the word in that connection.

Assuredly the crew that has been governing Russia for the past hundred years cannot claim consideration from the civilized world on the score of honor. They have been beaten in a war in which no national interest was involved in the beginning and which, if all tales are true, was the work of shameless graft.

The people of Russia know little or nothing about the war, except that somewhere in the Far East their husbands, brothers and sons are being slaughtered—why, no one can tell. The intelligent few in the empire care not a rap for the honor of the autocracy for they know that the honor of the nation, or the Russian people, is not tarnished and will not be, no matter what the Czar and the Grand Dukes have to sign away as the price of peace.

The men who have dishonored themselves are the men who got Russia into her difficulties. The real friends of the Russian people are the soldiers and the statesmen of Japan, who, by destroying or discrediting the autocracy, enable the people to attain national self-consciousness which shall include a sense of honor. To talk of the honor of Russia in the present condition of her affairs is to talk nonsense.

The Governor has nominated irrigation delegates because it was his official duty to do so, and not because he is a Spielverderber and wishes to abolish everything but water.

LIBRARIANS AND READERS.

A writer in the Librarian accounts for the large number of women employed in libraries by the simple principle of natural selection.

Library boards composed of men are ornamental instead of useful and the management falls to women. The library means more to women than to men; to the academic than to the industrial classes. Hence, it would seem to follow that these classes regulate the management. "The American business man," says the writer, "is not a reader save of the newspaper."

It is certainly unfortunate if the industrial classes are not getting all the benefit of the libraries, which are multiplying so rapidly, but it is no new development that men of academic habit read more than practical workers, and it is not true that these latter neglect the libraries. They do not read fiction, poetry or philosophy. But if anybody doubts the worth of the library to practical men let him look over the list of books on sanitation, municipal public work, chemistry, etc., in the St. Louis Public Library. These books are purchased in response to demands and serve a most humane interest.

Women and the academic classes will see that the humanities are not neglected, and when the practical men finish the sewers they are building and master the secrets of chemistry which bear on sanitation and industry, they will probably be not disinclined to academic interests. Superior persons who read Browning and Hardy may think meanly of men who work in the muck of materiality, but they love to stand on a material foundation which is clean and wholesome and that is being provided by men who do not read much but are ever searching for ideas and suggestions in the books on practical subjects which every good library takes care to provide.

The President will not lend his countenance to the reciprocity convention. From a party point of view he is taking the right course. Republicanism does not assimilate the reciprocity ideas of Blaine and McKinley. It stood for protection, or, rather, for more protection. And Mr. Roosevelt will not get in the way of the men who run the party machine.

The children of the House of Refuge are more fortunate than thousands of those who are at home. "The girls will be instructed in cooking and other household duties, and the boys will be given a thorough course in manual training and taught to sew on buttons."

Mr. Edison's new storage battery will probably revolutionize hauling, but for rapid pleasure transit further improvement appears to be necessary.

The 200,000,000 birds killed every year for women's hats do not indicate to us that any woman's hat can be bought for a song.

Since Russia's defeat the Finns are hoping to get into the swim again.

DIPLOMACY IN MARRIAGE.

From the Buffalo Enquirer.
At a recent wedding of John O'Leary, New York's richest petrolium, a political leader discussed happy marriages.

"The secret of happiness in marriage," he said, "lies in diplomacy. Neither truthfulness, nor economy, nor love, nor wealth will give a young couple happiness if diplomacy is lacking. For it is trifles that cause wretchedness in life, and only diplomacy can handle trifles."

"Let me illustrate."

"My wife said to young married woman of her acquaintance:

"Maggie, your Jim must have the best of dispositions. Here you were more than an hour last night dressing for the roof-garden party, and he never once called you to hurry, nor did he get mad or even sour."

"The young woman, with a wise, diplomatic smile, answered:
"Ah, but you see, I had hidden his wallet, his cigar case and his hat. I always do that when I know my dressing is going to keep me late. Afterward I find them for him, and he apologizes for having kept me waiting."

CHAPTER III.

The Round-Up.

IN the abandon of girlish intimacy of the dressing room Patricia lost her self-consciousness and at the call for the chorus marched up the stairs wholly forgetful of her dress, or lack of it.

The chorus men in cloth imitations of mail were grouped near the stair-head and parted languidly to allow the girls to pass. Interested in their conversations, they paid no heed to the feminine eruption.

Evelyn stopped to chatter with the assistant to the stage manager and the others huddled awkwardly to the right of the stage, Patricia hidden in the center of the group.

"Come out, there," roared the stage manager. "What's hiding for? Think I'm going to wait all day for you?"

He added adjurations neither dignified
nor nice.

The girls flocked on to the stage like a stampeded herd and faced him.

"Opening chorus," he said, and relapsed from a state of raging fury to an orchestra chair and quiet contemplation of the libretto.

The man at the piano played a bit of the orchestral part and signaled the chorus to begin.

It began lamely, inopportunely.

"Wild! wild! and rotten!" howled the stage manager, springing from his seat.

"What you doing up there? This is a drinking song—in front of an inn—you are villagers—merry making—plucking
—that the way you show gaiety—happiness? Get around the tables you big stiffs! You girls are filling glasses from your pitchers of wine—flirting with the men—make love to 'em. Get a move on—take the note. Now, Bill.

"Bill repeated his introduction and at the signal bellowed in his flat baritone
the opening phrase of the chorus.

The chorus keyed to the point of attention and understanding, joined voices.

The stage manager broke in on their harmony.

"Say, Maud," he addressed a bovine creature of large proportions, "keep up stage. Let the brothers have the down stage. All you burlesques keep up stage. Evelyn! You and that new girl
—Say, what's your name?"

"Patricia!"

"All right, Pat, you come out in front with Evelyn. You're a girl in this scene and Evelyn's a young man making love to you. Be coquettish. Walk across from left to right and then
back through the crowd. See! Al."

he called to his assistant, "put some tables and chairs on and sit those slobs."

When the stage was set to his liking and all the heavily-dressed girls were in the back of the scene, he ordered Bill
to give the musical cue for the chorus
again.

The members ran to their places, the girls who were supposed to bear pitchers of wine, poured imaginary bumpers for the men at the tables, and all the others moved about, faces to the audience, eyes alert, lips parted and heads
a-bobbing. At the signal they burst into song, and into the music came the harsh voice of the stage manager.

"You, there, you new girl; what you think you're walking for. This is no six-day match. Don't you know how to walk?"

He scrambled on the stage and catching her arm walked across the stage

head and parted languidly to allow the girls to pass. Interested in their conversations, they paid no heed to the feminine eruption.

Evelyn stopped to chatter with the assistant to the stage manager and the others huddled awkwardly to the right of the stage, Patricia hidden in the center of the group.

"Come out, there," roared the stage
manager. "What's hiding for? Think
I'm going to wait all day for you?"

He added adjurations neither dignified
nor nice.

The girls flocked on to the stage like
a stampeded herd and faced him.

"Opening chorus," he said, and relapsed from a state of raging fury to
an orchestra chair and quiet contemplation of the libretto.

The man at the piano played a bit of the orchestral part and signaled the chorus to begin.

It began lamely, inopportunely.

"Wild! wild! and rotten!" howled the
stage manager, springing from his seat.

"What you doing up there? This is a drinking song—in front of an inn—you
are villagers—merry making—plucking
—that the way you show gaiety—happiness? Get around the tables you big stiffs! You girls are filling glasses from your pitchers of wine—flirting with the men—make love to 'em. Get a move
on—take the note. Now, Bill.

"Bill repeated his introduction and at
the signal bellowed in his flat baritone
the opening phrase of the chorus.

The chorus keyed to the point of attention and understanding, joined voices.

The stage manager broke in on their harmony.

"Say, Maud," he addressed a bovine
creature of large proportions, "keep up stage. Let the brothers have the down
stage. All you burlesques keep up stage. Evelyn! You and that new girl
—Say, what's your name?"

"Patricia!"

"All right, Pat, you come out in front
with Evelyn. You're a girl in this scene and Evelyn's a young man making love to you. Be coquettish. Walk
back through the crowd. See! Al."

he called to his assistant, "put some tables and chairs on and sit those
slobs."

When the stage was set to his liking
and all the heavily-dressed girls were in the back of the scene, he ordered Bill
to give the musical cue for the chorus
again.

The members ran to their places, the girls who were supposed to bear pitchers of wine, poured imaginary bumpers
for the men at the tables, and all the others moved about, faces to the audience, eyes alert, lips parted and heads
a-bobbing. At the signal they burst in-
to song, and into the music came the harsh voice of the stage manager.

"You, there, you new girl; what you think you're walking for. This is no six-day match. Don't you know how to walk?"

He scrambled on the stage and catching her arm walked across the stage hands on women only when mutual affection pledged gives them the right. As she watched the schooling of the principals in their part the assistant stage manager paused at her side and, resting his hand lightly on her shoulder, said:

"Smith says you can sing."

"She shrank away from his touch and looked at him with frightened eyes, stammering, "Yes—yes, sir, I can sing."

He laughed. "Say, I'm not going to eat you. Do you dance?"

"Yes—yes, sir."

"Well, there's a bit in the third act for a good voice. If you can do it I may give it to you. Here Evelyn!"

Miss Forrest came out of the wings.
"That bit in the third—Smith says to see if this new girl can do it."

"Right, Al. Let's get over here and give it a try."

Al's arm swung instinctively to Patricia's waist, by which means he impelled her in the direction he wished her to take. She stiffened, but submitted, sensing that resentment would be ill timed.

In the remotest corner of the stage Evelyn indicated the "bit." Three girls in the center of the chorus were to begin a dance.

For each there was a sentence set to music and the advance to the object of adoration was made in dance steps. Later the three girls and the comedian sang and there was more dancing. Evelyn illustrated the movements and hummed the music. Patricia mimicked her haltingly at first, but presently gasped the detail and accomplished the work expected of her in crowd fashion.

"Keep your face to the audience, look at the professor," Evelyn commanded.

"Smile all the time. Show your teeth.
Don't drop your arms that way. Keep them up and when you have to stand, don't be so wooden. Stand this way.
Keep alive and in the scene all the time."

The chorus was called for another number and trooped on the stage to rehearse it.

Before Patricia was aware the rehearsal had run far into the afternoon.
She was unaware that she had missed lunch and Evelyn complained of hunger.

"The old slave-driver eats only two meals a day," she said, "and he thinks everybody ought to do the same."

She sent a youth for sandwiches and they ate them during a rest.

At 6 o'clock the company was released to prepare for the night performance.
The chorus had been for an hour in skirts, most of the girls negligently clothed and lacking the accessories of proper stage dress.

"They rushed to the dressing rooms like school children and completed toilets with bewildering rapidity."

"Another rehearsal tomorrow," they sighed, and every face dramatized deep disgust, every face dramatized deep disgust.

She felt no weariness. She wished the evening performance in which she had no part were put off that the rehearsal of the next week's opera might go on indefinitely.

She went home glowing with premoni-tion of brilliant success, carrying in her heart news and her optimism to her mother.

FAILS TO DEATH UNDER FAST MAIL

None Sees Man Killed Under Speeding Train-Clerk Hears Groan.

THINKS IT A GREETING

Fragments of Body Found on Beams When Flyer
Reaches St. Louis.

The tragic sequel of a scream and groan, which the mail clerk in his car thought was the voice of some one shouting from the station platform at Highland, Ill., was found when the 2:30 a. m. Vandalla mail train arrived in Union Station Wednesday.

A car inspector found under the mail car the right hand, arm, shoulder and part of the back of a man.

The fragments were sent to the morgue.

Officials of the railroad learned that the man was Frank Knickerbocker, aged 25, of Troy, Ill. Coroner Baron held an inquest and returned a verdict of accidental death. The remains will be shipped to his home immediately.

The train passed through Highland about 2:30 a. m. It was going 50 miles an hour.

W. H. Perry was the mail clerk on duty. He was busy sorting the last of the mail for St. Louis. He scarcely noticed the rattle of the wheels as they hurried over the switch frogs and rails.

He was instantly aware of the dull roar of an instant as his car whizzed past the station.

But above the roar there rose a cry. Then there came a groan as of a man in agony.

Perry stepped across the car and listened. He could not locate the direction from which the startling sounds had come.

Ory of Greeting.

He recalled at almost every station village the shouting cry of greeting to the whirling cars, and Perry returned to his work.

The train backed into Union Station shed. Harry Pullman, a car inspector, bent with his torch to search for hot boxes and to see that all was well with axles and beams.

The glare of his torch showed a strange shadow among the beams beneath the spot where the mail clerk had stood.

He crawled under the car toward the shadow until he found what it was. There came, and together they removed the fragments.

It is believed the man was riding the trucks and went to sleep or in some other way lost control of himself. As the train was passing through Highland, partly full.

Field, With 100,000 Barrels of Crude Destroyed.

HOUSTON, Tex., Aug. 8.—A $500,000 loss will follow the firing of a Higgins oil tank.

The flames leaped to an adjoining tank, kindling 100,000 barrels of oil.

One burst. The oil burst, and spread like a lake of fire. Workmen built earthen dykes. These held the oil in a circumference.

Several wells took fire and rigging were burned.

The fire is now under control.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—The stock market opened active and irregular this morning, gains and losses being about equally distributed throughout the list.

The trading was largely confined to the professional one-half of the market, with commission house orders being light.

London prices on Americans before the local opening were irregular and a little lower and trading at that center is reported as quiet.

Peace prospects, however, and Russian bonds are firm.

Local news over night is mixed. Crop reports and prices are highly flattering, but these favorable influences may be temporarily offset by the spread of the yellow fever in the South.

Price Movements.

A number of advances resulted from the occasional buying movements of the first hour, but afterward the market became dull and in some cases drooping.

Comparatively little interest was shown in the coalers. Erie, Reading and Pullman closed at 100, 100 and 100.

Central and Smeltering were prominent. Central advanced 1/2, Smeltering 1/4.

Advance had little stimulating effect on kindred stocks. Peoria and Eastern improved 1/4, Smeltering 1/4.

Options on all the properties desired have been secured and are now to be closed. When this is done the consolidation company will be organized and incorporated and will assume the management of the consolidated properties.

Mr. Kavanaugh is at present in Mexico, but is expected to return to St. Louis shortly, at which time the consolidation of the 30 coal mines will be perfected.

It is said to be reasonably certain that he will be president of the company controlling the mines.

One-Third of St. Louis Supply.

The properties included in the consolidation produce about one-third of the coal output in the St. Louis district, it is stated, and are therefore an important factor in the local situation. The mines are all in active operation and are considered among the most valuable properties in the St. Louis district.

The Southern Railway Co. is represented in the syndicate and will have a voice in the management of the mines. The fact that they can be operated under one management and under one management on the capital invested was the initial reason advanced by promoters of the syndicate.

The lower cost of production will also be a factor in the maintenance of reasonably low prices to consumers. While the deal affects only those mines along the Southern Railway, it is a successful operation under centralized management, it is said, will likely cause a movement to consolidate all the coal mines in the St. Louis district.

In the present deal will be closed within thirty days. A member of the local syndicate has been seen by the Post-Dispatch. There is little possibility of a hitch in the deal, as all necessary options have been secured and the syndicate is to close the deal on the terms agreed upon by the members.

DEATH OF MRS. SCUDDER.

Wife of Former City Treasurer
Succumbs in Eureka Springs.

The remains of Mrs. Sarah V. Scudder, wife of Charles Scudder, former City Treasurer and Public Administrator, who died of typhoid fever Monday at Eureka Springs, Ark., arrived in St. Louis Wednesday morning for burial.

Details of the funeral have not been arranged. The service will be held at a family residence at 324 Washington avenue, and interment will be in Bellefontaine cemetery.

Mrs. Scudder went to Eureka Springs Tuesday night and died there. She was 48 years of age and had been residing there with her husband, three sons and five daughters.

TO BUILD 13-STORY ANNEX.

Addition to the Frisco Building
Will Be Made.

A history annex to the Frisco Building is to be constructed and leased to the St. Louis & San Francisco Railroad Co. under the provisions of an agreement filed Monday at the Recorder's office.

The new structure will occupy the 50-foot lot adjoining the present building on the west and will cost $200,000. The lease expires in February, 1923, coincidentally with the lease on the old building, and the new structure is to be completed within nine months.

Looks for Father Lost Years.

Commodore Cooper, of Copeland, Ark., has written to the city asking for information of his father, whom he has not seen for twenty years. He says his father was a common stockholder in the common stock of the city and that he has been paying dividends at the rate of one-half of one per cent quarterly.

The passing of the common dividend came as a great surprise to the Commodore, and the stock which he owned at 22 yesterday dropped to 17 1/2 on the announcement.

The Closing.

Trading became intensely dull after the noon hour and for long periods at times not a sale of any kind was recorded. Prices, however, were fairly well maintained around the recent level, no selling pressure of any consequence was encountered. The expectation that Government report to be issued tomorrow will make a highly favorable showing, helped sentiment, and although profit-taking sales were noted in the last few minutes of the session, the close was steady, and price changes for the day small.

Has No Presidential Bee.

Martin A. Desmond, recently elected member of the delegation that will represent the local branch of the Post-Office Clerks' Association at their national convention Sept. 4 at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, was yesterday reported as a candidate for the office of President of the national association.

Mr. Desmond is at present Second Vice-President of the national organization, though he was indicated as the candidate for a national office at a meeting of the local branch, it was not that of the President. He says his name was never mentioned as a presidential candidate, but he has no aspirations for the office.

"MY WIFE AND OUR CHILDREN"

East St. Louis Man Surprises Father and Mother at Breakfast Table.

When Constable Thomas Walmsley and wife of 17 Brooklyn street, East St. Louis, awoke Wednesday morning and went downstairs to breakfast they found their son, Joseph, aged 40, and a woman and two children already prepared for the morning repast.

"What does this mean?" they ejaculated. "My wife and our children," proudly announced the son.

It was the first intimation of the parents of any matrimonial intentions on the part of Joseph, who is a machinist. His first wife got a divorce last April. Tuesday was an important day on the calendar of Walmsley, junior. He put in the time in St. Louis, getting married. The bride was Mrs. Kate Jager of St. Louis, who was a widow with two children.

The happy family arrived in East St. Louis Tuesday night too late to catch the last car for his home at Twenty-third street and Bond avenue and the night was spent at the home of a friend, where all of the family were asleep and the presence of the visitors was unknown until breakfast time.

MAN WHO STABBED TWO SURRENDERS

Tells Police They Beat Him, But They Say It Was Only a Jostle.

John A. Farrow of 334 North Eleventh street, who stabbed John Carter of Bay City, Mich., and William Cogan of 284 North Eleventh street, at Ninth and Salisbury streets Tuesday night, went to the Angelica Street Police Station Wednesday morning and surrendered himself to Capt. Phillips.

He admits the stabbing, but says that it was in self-defense. He says that Carter is at the City Hospital and one of his wounds in his left arm and one in his left leg. His condition is not serious.

Cogan says he and Carter accidentally jostled against Farrow in front of the boarding house of William Saverson at 806 Salisbury street. He says Farrow was unwilling to accept an apology and a quarrel ensued. Farrow and Carter fought and the two men were stabbed.

Where Bride Must Promise to Obey Husband's Command.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 9.—The revised report of the Presbyterian General Assembly's Committee on Forms and Services contains the rituals of the respective churches and while much alike, they show a striking contrast in the marriage service.

In the Presbyterian Church service the woman must promise to obey—in the Methodist Episcopal Church she need take no such obligation.

GROCERS MAY KEEP OPEN ON SUNDAY

Judge Bishop ruled Tuesday in the Court of Criminal Correction that unlicensed and other retailers for food are not illegal, and that, therefore, neither Jacob Maurer nor any other dealer violates the Sunday closing law in selling such commodities.

Maurer was charged with having sold a bottle of mustard to Detective Dunne several Sundays ago, and the case against him was brought to test the law by the Master Butchers' Association in an effort to compel the closing of groceries and butcher shops on Sundays.

He is proprietor of a market at 102 Market street. Detective Dunne was accompanied by Henry Collet of the Master Butchers' Association when he purchased the mustard from Maurer. Because of Judge Bishop's ruling in this case Prosecuting Attorney William H. Miller prosecuted the case against M. Bichler, Maurice Alexander and Ferdinand Rosenthal, whom similar charges had been preferred, and it was understood that the State will not appeal the Maurer case. This means that groceries and butcher shops will hereafter remain open on Sundays.

NO SLEEP FOR MOTHER

Baby Covered With Sores and Scabs. Could Not Tell What She Looked Like.

MARVELOUS CURE BY CUTICURA

"At four months old my baby's face and body were so covered with sores and large scabs you could not tell what she looked like. No child ever had a worse case. Her face was being eaten away, and even her finger nails fell off. It itched so she could not sleep, and for many weary nights we could get no rest. At last we got Cuticura Soap and Ointment. The sores began to heal at once, and she could sleep at night, and in one month she had not one sore on her face or body."

—Mrs. Mary Sanders, 709 Spring St., Camden, N. J.
